In the beginning there was light.

Penn Central was looking looking to make money and accidentally built a world class structure. By today's standards it's one of the world's great man-made complexes. It's scale dwarfing any other site.

Ever since the world started this has been a constant dynamic between what's good for the public and what makes money for a few.

This is being played out out by all of us here.

When the governor gave us 10 months to choose a location for a train station the mayor should have given it some serious thought and in a nanosecond replied Central Terminal.

I would like to compliment the hard work of all the people ~~men~~ who have made L.V. and C.S. a seasonal addition to the culture of our fair city. The idea of where to build a train station has no basis.

The train station is already built for us, it only has to be finished. The hard part of getting C.T. working has been done already ~~by~~ by the thousands of people who have worked hundreds of thousands of hrs. over the decades since 1992 cleaning and maintaining C.T. ~~free~~ for free knowing it was a noble cause, in the hope that they would live to see this day arrive. When C.T. would be restored to its glory.

... C.T. is almost a sacred place a testament to our grandparents hard work and mankinds ingenuity.

I was a volunteer at C.T. and did very little compared to most others.

All tracks lead to C.T. and could be connected to L.V. + C.S.

C.T. adds another dimension to our lives. A place that can be used year round for a superb venue of events.

Please don't diminish this treasure. Later the tower will be used for some kind of multi use occupancy.

The concourse however will always remain public domain for the community to use.

~~I would hope~~

To exemplify the essence of my cogitations I've written a poem by Giovanni Buiatico named "The Ambience of Central Terminal".

Where can I go on a day like today for breakfast or lunch

Where can I go " " " " " " for dinner, dance in the evening for listen to a musical play.

" " " " " " " " " " " " if the weather worsens and I have to stay
